REPORT OF THE COUNCIL.

I. SESSION 1868–69.

PUPILS AND FEES.

The entire number of Pupils during this Session was 1087, being an increase of 30 on the numbers of the preceding Session. Of these, 626 were Students in the College, and 461 Pupils in the School. Of the Students, 233 belonged to the Faculty of Medicine, 76 being new Students: in the Faculty of Arts and Laws there were 393 Students, of whom 120 attended the Evening Classes; in this Faculty there were 255 new Students. The largest number of Boys in the School in any one Term was 377.

The Fees received (exclusive of those for Clinical Instruction) amounted to £16,001 11*s.* 6*d.*, being £936 12*s.* 6*d.* more than in Session 1867–68. This sum consists of the following items:—Fees for attendance on Classes of the Faculty of Medicine, £3740 19*s.*; Fees for attendance on Classes in the Faculty of Arts and Laws, £4705 19*s.*, of which £362 18*s.* 6*d.* was on account of the Evening Classes; School Fees, £7554 13*s.* 6*d.* The total payments to Professors, Teachers, and Masters amounted to £11,419 8*s.* 7*d.*, leaving £4582 2*s.* for the College portion, which was thus greater by £577 0*s.* 2*d.* than in the preceding Session. In addition to the above-stated amounts, the sum of £1638 3*s.* (being an increase of £193 11*s.* on the previous year) was received for Clinical Instruction in the Hospital, making a total of £5379 2*s.* paid by Students of the Faculty of Medicine in the Session. These Hospital Fees were surrendered by the Medical Officers for the benefit of the Charity, in accordance with their invariable practice.

SCHOOL.

The following extracts from the Report of the School Committee, presented to the Council on December 4th, 1869, will give the necessary information respecting the state of the School:—

"It will be gratifying to the Council to hear that the information obtained about the School is highly satisfactory throughout. The number of pupils has kept steadily at a high level: the improvement of discipline, and the diminution of entries in the Black Book, adverted to by the Committee in their last year's Report, have been not merely maintained, but carried farther in the same direction. The teaching in the various Classes is recorded to have been effective, and the diligent attention of the pupils has been such as would do credit to any school.

"Testimonies of proficiency of the pupils, as manifested by the acquisition of prizes and by successful examinations after leaving school, have been reported to the Committee in greater number than usual.

"The total returns of numbers in the School and attendance in the Classes, during the three Terms of the last Session, as compared with those of the two preceding Sessions, are also very satisfactory.

"The comparison stands as follows :—

	1st Term.	2nd Term.	3rd Term.
1866–67.....	347	367	360
1867–68.....	351	372	370
1868–69.....	364	365	377

"The Reports further attest that sensible benefit has been felt in the working of the School from the enlarged and improved quarters, provided last year at so large a cost by the College, in the construction of the new Wing."

In their last Report, the Council expressed a hope that when the School was put into possession of the better accommodation, then almost completed, the number of its pupils would be largely augmented, and they are happy to be able now to report that this hope has to a considerable extent been already realized. The School took possession of some of the Class Rooms in the new Wing soon after Easter 1869, but it was not until near the end of the Session that every part of the building was fit for occupation ; yet the effect of what had been done had even then become apparent, and the number of pupils was larger than it had been for three or four years previously. In the present Session, this increase has been still more marked. In the Michaelmas Term, 390 Boys attended the Schools, the greatest number that had ever entered them in one Term. In the present Lent Term, there are no less than 406 pupils in attendance.

The former Pupils of the School who in the College Examinations obtained Prizes and Certificates of Honour were the following :—Mr. Edward Melville Lynch obtained the Entrance Exhibition for Classics, the Andrews Prize for Classics, the First Prize in the Senior Greek Class, Third Certificate Higher Senior Latin, Second Certificate Senior French, Seventh Certificate Junior Mathematics ; Mr. Walter William Rouse Ball, Andrews Scholarship for Mathematics, Second Prize Mental Philosophy, Prize for Logic, Second Prize Senior Pure Mathematics, Second Certificate Senior Physics ; Mr. Arthur Hibble Higgs, Half Prize for English Essay, First Certificate Senior Latin, Prize Senior French, Prize Senior English, First Prize Comparative Grammar ; Mr. Edward Adolf Sonnenschein, Second Prize Senior Greek, Fourth Certificate Senior Latin, Second Prize Comparative Grammar, Third Prize Junior Mathematics ; Mr. Montefiore Simon Waley, Fourth Certificate Senior Greek, Second Prize Lower Senior Latin, Second Certificate Early English, Fifth Certificate Junior Physics ; Mr. Philip Herbert Carpenter, First Prize Junior Greek, First Prize Junior Physics ; Mr. Arthur Errington Hume, Sixth Certificate Junior Greek ; Mr. Brabazon Tooke Hallowes, Fourth Certificate Lower Senior Latin ; Mr. William James Russell, Fifth Certificate Lower Senior Latin ; Mr. Alfred Wolff, Fourth Certificate Junior Latin ; Mr. Jacob John Jonas, Fifth Certificate Senior French, Fourth Certificate Junior Physics ; Mr. A. J. H. Russell, Third Certificate Junior French, Second Certificate Junior German ; Mr. Frederick Thomas Daniel, Sixth Certificate Junior French ; Mr. H. Edgcumbe Thomas, Seventh Certificate Senior English ; Mr. Edward Spence Symes, Second Certificate English Grammar ; Mr. Edward William Tagg, Second Prize Lower Senior Mathematics ; Mr. Abraham de Mattos Mocatta, Fourth Certificate Junior Mathematics, Eighth Certificate Chemistry; Mr. Sidney Follett Osler, Third Certificate Junior Physics, Twelfth Certificate Chemistry; Mr. Henry Colgate, Fifth Certificate Chemistry; Mr. Francis Robert Morrison, Prizes for Geology and Mineralogy.

EVENING CLASSES.

The total number of tickets issued during the Session was 337, a decrease of 29 from the number for Session 1867–68, and the fees received amounted to £362 18*s.* 6*d.*, which was less by £20 14*s.* than the amount in the previous Session, and to which the Six Law Classes contributed only £54; yet the number of Students rose from 106 to 120. The Classes for Languages and for Mathematics continue to be the best attended, and the experience of every year since the establishment of the Evening Classes seems to prove that there is little or no demand for instruction in some of the subjects for which Classes have been provided.

GENERAL FINANCES.

A surplus of £151 was reported for Session 1867–68; for last Session there was a surplus of receipts over expenditure of £523 14*s.* 8*d.*, notwithstanding a payment of £250 on account of the extraordinary expense incurred in obtaining the College Act of Parliament. This satisfactory result is due to several causes. First, the amount of the College portion of fees was greater in this than in the preceding Session by £577; next, the miscellaneous receipts increased by nearly £50; and thirdly, the general expenses (exclusive of the above-mentioned sum of £250 for Law expenses) again showed a diminution of nearly £150, although £160 more had been spent in the purchase of apparatus than in the previous Session. The Liabilities on the face of the account on August 31st, 1869, were greater than at the close of the financial year in 1868 by £1583 10*s.*; but this is explained by the fact that the total amount paid within the year on account of the new Wing was £4363 14*s.* 8*d.*, of which only £2648 7*s.* 9*d.* was derived from the subscriptions to the Building Fund, leaving the large sum of £1715 7*s.*, which has to be defrayed out of the ordinary income of the College.

II. THE CURRENT SESSION.

The entries of Students up to February 23rd are as follows:—In the Faculty of Medicine, 239, of whom 84 are new students; in the Faculty of Arts and Laws, 343 (including 86 attending the Evening Classes), of whom 218 are new students: in the School, in Michaelmas Term, 390, of whom 75 were new pupils; in the present Term, 406, 53 being new pupils. Compared with the entries up to the same date last year, these returns show an increase of 26 in the Medical Classes, and of 11 in the Arts and Laws Classes; in the School, an increase of 26 in the Michaelmas Term, and of 51 in the Current Term.

The increase in the number of new Medical Students this Session is 20, and in that of new Arts and Laws Students 16.

III. THE YEAR FROM FEBRUARY 1869 TO FEBRUARY 1870.

THE COLLEGE ACT AND THE NEW BYE-LAWS.

The most important event in the history of the College during the past year is its reconstitution by the Act of Parliament, the leading provisions of which were unanimously approved by the Members of the College at the Special General Meeting, held on February 24th, 1869, when the Council were authorised to take all proper steps to cause the Bill thus approved to pass into a Law, with any amendments which they might deem advisable, or which Parliament might think fit.

In pursuance of the authority thus entrusted to them, the Council lost no time in procuring the introduction of the measure into the House of Lords soon after the opening of Parliament; no opposition whatever was made to the Bill in the Committee, either of the Upper or of the Lower House; and the only modification of any importance that was made in it during its passage through Parliament, was one intended to define more clearly the relation between the College and the Hospital, and to give greater security to the latter.

The Act received the Royal assent on the 24th of June, and thus the College was established on a simpler and firmer basis than before, freed from every trace of its original proprietary character, and elevated into the position of what may fairly be considered to be a permanent and national Institution.

A copy of the Act having been forwarded to every Member of the College, it is unnecessary to enter here into any detailed account of its provisions; but the Council think it desirable to call special attention to two of them. The first of these is contained in the 4th Section, which extends the scope of the Institution by empowering it to provide instruction for persons of both sexes, and by adding the Fine Arts to the branches of knowledge specified in the Charter, as included in the College Curriculum. The second provision referred to is that contained in the 6th Section, which enables the College to take devises and bequests of real property to any extent not exceeding (exclusive of the site of the College and Hospital) in yearly value in the whole the sum of £10,000, any law or statute to the contrary notwithstanding.

The expense of obtaining the Act, though unopposed, was very considerable, amounting to nearly £900; but although this forms a serious burthen on the ordinary income of the College, it will be entirely defrayed out of such income during the past and the present financial years; and the Council are satisfied that the Members will agree with them in the opinion that, having regard to the future and permanent interests of the Institution, no expenditure could be more beneficial.

The passing of the Act rendered it desirable that no time should be lost in adopting a body of Bye-laws in accordance with its provisions, especially with reference to the appointment of Fellows and Life Governors at the present meeting. A Committee was therefore appointed to prepare a draft of new Bye-laws, and they received valuable cooperation from the Senate. These Bye-laws having been finally settled by the Council, were submitted to the Members at an extraordinary General Meeting held on December 16th, 1869, when they were, with one slight amendment, unanimously adopted. The Council believe that wherever the new Bye-laws differ from those which they have superseded, they will be found to be more simple and perspicuous, and that the improvements made in those which relate to the internal management and discipline of the College will greatly facilitate the attainment of the objects aimed at.

The Council propose that the new Bye-laws relating to the appointment of Fellows should be put into operation to-day; this, indeed, is rendered almost imperative by the 4th Clause of the 1st Section; but with a view to the nomination of a full and satisfactory list of Life Governors, they have found it expedient to postpone the making of such nomination until a future General Meeting, when they hope to be able, with the concurrence and approval of the Members, to make a large and valuable addition to their constituency.

At the Entrance Examination for the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, in January 1870, Mr. Julian John Leverson (s) was placed Fifth in order of priority, and Mr. Edward N. Henriques (s) the Twenty-fourth.

At the Royal Academy in December 1869, Mr. F. Trevelyan Goodall (s) gained a Scholarship of £50, a Gold Medal for the best Historical Painting, and the First Silver Medal for Drawing from the Life; and Mr. Howard Goodall (s) obtained the Second Silver Medal for Drawing from the Antique, and a prize of £10 for the best Drawing from the Antique done during the year.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

The Council, in their last Report, informed the Members that they had lately resolved, with the concurrence of the Senate, to institute a Professorship of Hygiène and Public Health. Soon afterwards, Mr. W. H. Corfield, M.B. Oxon, who had for some years been a Student in the Medical Faculty of the College, was appointed to that Professorship for the term of two years, and he delivered his first course of Lectures in the ensuing Summer Session.

In their last Report, the Council stated that an effort had lately been made to render the Law Classes more attractive, but expressed their regret that, up to February last, the experiment had not been very successful. As no change for the better took place subsequently, the condition of those Classes became a subject of serious consideration to the Council, and a Committee was appointed to investigate it. The Committee conferred with the Law Professors and Readers, and obtained from them and from Students in the Law Classes much valuable information, which was embodied in their Report to the Council.

Professor Russell, who had held the appointment of Professor of English Law since the year 1849, resigned his Chair in consequence of his appointment to a judicial office in Manchester; and Professor Roby, finding that his other engagements would prevent him from devoting an amount of time to the duties of his Chair of Jurisprudence which he considered necessary, placed his resignation of that office in the hands of the Council, by whom it was accepted.

In accordance with the recommendation made by the Committee, the Council determined to make an attempt to place the Law Classes in a position that would be likely to extend their usefulness and to promote their success; while, at the same time, the instruction given in them should be restricted to the more theoretical branches of Law, and especially to those required for the LL.B. Examinations of the University of London, particularly for the first of those Examinations. Advertisements were accordingly issued, announcing that the Council were prepared to appoint Professors or Readers in Jurisprudence, Roman Law, and Constitutional Law and History. The result was that the following appointments were made:—Mr. Sheldon Amos, M.A. Camb., of the Inner Temple, son of a former Professor of English Law in the College, to be Professor of Jurisprudence; Mr. W. A. Hunter, M.A. Aberdeen, of the Middle Temple, to be Professor of Roman Law; and Mr. J. W. Willis Bund, M.A., LL.B. Camb., of Lincoln's Inn, to be Professor of Constitutional Law and History. It would be premature were the Council now to express any decided opinion as to the probable results of the important changes thus made in the Law Classes, but they have reason to be satisfied with the progress hitherto made.

In the course of the last Summer Session, Professor George Harley resigned the Professorship of Medical Jurisprudence, which he had held with great distinction since 1858. His successor has not yet been appointed, but steps are being taken to supply his place before the commencement of the next Summer Session *.

Dr. Michael Foster, who in 1867 was appointed Lecturer on Practical Physiology and Histology, and under whose care that Class has been greatly improved and extended, has been raised to the rank of Professor, on the unanimous recommendation of the Senate.

Professor Seeley, who was elected to the Chair of Latin in 1863, having received the appointment of Regius Professor of Modern History in the University of Cambridge, has been obliged to resign the Latin Professorship in the College, to which he has rendered very valuable services by the manner in which he has discharged the duties of this important Chair. Professor Seeley's official connexion with the College will, however, continue until the end of the Session; and the Council are happy to inform the Members that they have appointed to succeed him, a highly distinguished scholar, Mr. Robinson Ellis, Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford, who will enter upon his duties at the beginning of next Session.

TUESDAY EVENING LECTURES.

The Course of Lectures announced for last Session was, with one exception, completed in accordance with the programme. Professor Michael Foster was unfortunately compelled by ill health to defer the giving of his Lecture, and his place was very kindly taken by Mr. E. B. Tylor. The series was highly satisfactory, and, in a financial point of view, far more successful than the first series; so that a considerable balance has been paid over to the Building Fund. The third series of Lectures is now in course of delivery, the Lecturers being Dr. W. B. Carpenter, F.R.S., Professor Henry Morley, Professor Seeley, Professor G. C. Foster, F.R.S., Mr. E. J. Poynter, A.R.A., and Professor C. Cassal.

SOUTH WING.

It has been already mentioned that this building was occupied by the School at the beginning of the Summer Term in 1869; and the Council are glad to learn that it has been found extremely well adapted to the purposes for which it was intended.

The estimate given in the last Report of the then outstanding liabilities of the College on account of the wing, has proved to be a little greater than the actual amount. Yet up to the close of the financial year, the sum of £1715 7*s.* 0*d.* beyond the amount of subscriptions received had, as previously stated, been paid on account of the building; and since that date a further sum has been paid, making a total extra outlay of nearly £1800, which must either be provided out of the invested capital of the College, or continue to be for some time to come a burthen to be defrayed out of its yearly income, unless the deficiency be kindly supplied by the liberality of the friends of the Institution.

* Since the date of this Report, Henry Maudsley, M.D. Lond., a Fellow of the College, has been appointed Professor of Medical Jurisprudence.

SLADE BEQUEST.

In their last Report, the Council gave some general information respecting this important bequest, the object of which is to promote the study of the Fine Arts in this country; but stated that, as the executors to whom the testator had given large discretionary powers as to the precise modes in which his benefaction is to be applied, had not then made known their intentions in the matter, it was not possible to give further information on the subject. Since that time the executors have endowed two Slade Professorships, one in the University of Oxford, the other in the University of Cambridge; and have had frequent communications with the Council. Those gentlemen have shown the greatest desire to meet the views of the Council, and to apply the funds at their disposal in such a way as shall most effectually accomplish Mr. Slade's object, and at the same time promote the interests of the College.

The Council are happy to report that a scheme has at length been agreed upon between the executors and themselves, which will, they believe, be satisfactory to all parties; but as some parts of that scheme will require the sanction of the Charity Commissioners, it would be improper to enter on this occasion into any details, which must, therefore, be reserved for the next Report. The Council, however, entertain little doubt that the required sanction will be obtained; and that ere long they will be in a position to lay the foundations of a School of Fine Art in the College, which will greatly extend the usefulness of the Institution, and afford opportunities to Students for obtaining sound scientific, as well as practical instruction in the various branches of the Fine Arts.

LADIES' CLASSES HELD AT THE COLLEGE.

About two years ago an association, entitled "The Ladies' Educational Association," was formed for the purpose of providing superior instruction in various branches of knowledge for ladies not less than seventeen years of age; and last summer it commenced operations by forming two classes for the study of English Literature and of Experimental Physics, which were taught by Professors Morley and Foster. For the present Session a more extensive scheme was prepared, and arrangements were made for six classes, all to be under the superintendence of Professors of this College.

It had been found that the necessity for the use of apparatus to illustrate the lectures on Physics, made it extremely inconvenient to deliver those lectures away from the College; and as it was proposed to continue that course during the present Session, and to have besides a class for the study of Chemistry, which would equally require experimental illustrations, the Senate passed a resolution recommending the Council to allow those two classes to be held in the Physical and Chemical Theatres of the College respectively, and to authorize the Professors to use the apparatus belonging to the College in their lectures to them.

The Council carefully considered this recommendation, and bearing in mind the facts that the new constitution of the College authorizes it to provide instruction for women, and that the University of London, in exercise of a power conferred upon it by a Supplemental Charter granted in 1867, has instituted examinations for women, they came to the conclusion that, provided all needful arrangements could be made, it was desirable that they should give the permission asked for.

The Council are glad to report that during the last and the present Terms, the two classes above mentioned have met regularly at the College, and that satisfactory arrangements, including separate entrances, having been made, no inconvenience has been occasioned by the experiment, nor any interference with the ordinary business of the College.

THE ALEXANDER BRUCE MEDAL.

At their last Session, the Council were informed that the sum of £250 had been presented to the College by Mrs. Bruce for investment, in trust that the yearly income of the fund may be expended in providing a Gold Medal "for proficiency particularly in Surgery and Pathology, to be called 'The Alexander Bruce Medal,'" in commemoration of her son, a former student of the College, who had gained the highest distinction in our Medical Faculty as well as in the University of London, and whose untimely death in April last, at the age of twenty-seven, had been deeply deplored, not only by all who had been connected with him in the College, either as his teachers or as his fellow students, but by many other members of the profession who appreciated his great ability and his indefatigable devotion to medical science, to which it was hoped and expected that he would make valuable contributions.

The Council has willingly undertaken the duty of administering the trust thus created; and it is anticipated that the preliminary arrangements will be completed in time to enable the Council to publish the regulations relating to the awarding of the "Alexander Bruce Medal" in the Prospectus and Calendar for next session.

THE SHARPEY LIBRARY AND MEMORIAL.

At their Session on August 7th, 1869, the Council took into consideration a recommendation made by the Senate, that the Council should agree to the conditions on which Professor Sharpey had expressed his desire to present to the College, in his lifetime, his very valuable Library of Physiological and Anatomical works. As those conditions were simply that proper accommodation and care should be provided for the Library, and were therefore obviously required in order to make Professor Sharpey's liberal gift permanently useful to the College, the Council at once resolved to comply with them, and gave directions to make the necessary arrangements.

In connexion with this subject it may be mentioned that measures have been taken by many of Professor Sharpey's former pupils to raise a fund for the purpose of establishing, in connexion with the College, a lasting memorial of their respected teacher, in the shape of a "Physiological Scholarship," the holder of which must be a student of the College, and will have duties assigned to him in the Laboratory of Practical Physiology, under the supervision of the Professor in that department.

It is hoped that it may be possible to take some steps before the commencement of next Session towards the realization of these plans, by fitting up a new Class-room for the reception of the Library, and for the carrying on of the studies of the Class of Practical Physiology and Histology. There is every reason to expect that the other object above referred to will ere long be attained; and it is hoped that the Physiological department of the College, which has recently been considerably extended in the practical direction, being thus remodelled and reinforced, will assume a position even higher than that which it has hitherto enjoyed; while the newly organized Physiological Laboratory, with the extensive Library presented by Dr. Sharpey, will constitute a most appropriate memorial of our distinguished Professor.

THE MORRIS LIBRARY.

Mr. James Morris, formerly a Professor in the Royal College of Mauritius, who died in February 1869, bequeathed his extensive and valuable library to his wife for her life, and after her death to this College. It is estimated that the collection contains between 8000 and 9000 volumes, relating to every department of literature and science, many of them being of great rarity, and nearly all in excellent condition. Mrs. Morris has most liberally surrendered her life interest in upwards of 3000 volumes, which were delivered over to the College in the course of last summer, and of which a catalogue is now being made. It has been determined to place this large addition to the College Library in the room which was originally used as the General Library, and which has for some months past remained unoccupied, since it was vacated by the School. This room will furnish ample accommodation for the whole of the "Morris Library," and will also serve the purpose of a Reading-room, to be used by persons who may be engaged in literary research.

DONATIONS TO THE LIBRARIES.

The other principal Donors of books during the past year are the following:—The Secretary of State for War, the University of Christiana, the Royal Society, the Royal Society of Literature, the Royal Asiatic Society, the Royal Institution of Great Britain, the Royal Institute of British Architects, the Asiatic Society of Bengal, the Statistical Society, the Zoological Society, the Cobden Club, the Obstetrical Society, the Pharmaceutical Society, the Smithsonian Institution, the Astronomer-Royal, Sir C. Wentworth Dilke, M.P., Sir Edward S. Creasy, J. N. Hancock, Esq., LL.D., the executors of H. C. Robinson, Esq., Samuel Sharpe, Esq., the Rev. George Musgrave, W. Cave Thomas, Esq., J. F. Streatfeild, Esq., O. Ferris, Esq., Professors Wharton Jones, Key, Malden, and Williamson, Dr. Tilbury Fox, and Christopher Heath, Esq.

PEEL MEMORIAL FUND.

The income of this Fund in 1869 was expended in making presents of Books, &c. to three Institutions, viz. The Holloway Working Men's Club and Institute, The Bridgton (Glasgow) Working Men's Club, and The Inverness Working Mens' Club.

The Balance of the Dividends of the Fund now in hand is £56 0*s.* 2*d.*, which will be expended in the usual way in the course of the ensuing Spring.

HOSPITAL.

The total receipts for the year ending October 31st 1869, including Legacies, a loan of £3000 from the Bankers, and the balance from the previous year, amounted to £13,025; the gross expenditure was £12,606, consisting of the following principal items:—£5703 on account of debts of former years, £6902 for expenses of the current year, including £853 for various improvements and additions to the Building, and for the fitting up of the Children's Wards.

The balance at the end of the financial year was £418 19*s.* 5*d.*, and the debt (exclusive of the mortgage loan of £3000 and of the bankers' loan of £3000) amounted to £4876, being about £1500 less than on the 31st October 1868. The bankers' loan has since been repaid out of the proceeds of two railway debenture bonds, paid off in January of the present year. The capital of the Hospital has thus been reduced to the extent of £3000, and its annual reliable income by £150. It was considered, however, both by the Council and by the Hospital Committee, a less evil to submit to this reduction, than to the inconveniences inseparable from the existence of a large amount of long outstanding debts.

The Dinner, at which H.R.H. Prince Christian had graciously consented to preside in April was unavoidably postponed until June, when His Royal Highness, who was accompanied by H.R.H. Prince Arthur, advocated the claims of the Charity in a most effective manner. The amount received, including donations of £100 from Her Majesty, of £21 from Prince Christian, and of £10 from Prince Arthur, amounted to £1782.

Alderman Sir J. C. Lawrence, Bart., M.P., has kindly consented to preside this day at the Festival in aid of the Funds of the Hospital at Willis's Rooms; and the Council trust that he will be supported by a large number of the friends of the Institution.

Sir F. H. Goldsmid, who had for eleven years held the Office of Treasurer, resigned it in March last, on being elected Treasurer of the College. The great services which he had, as Treasurer, rendered to the Hospital were acknowledged by a special vote of the Hospital Committee, in which the Council heartily concurred.

Edward Enfield, Esq., was unanimously chosen by the Council to fill the Office vacated by Sir F. H. Goldsmid.

In the Medical Staff the following changes have taken place during the year :—

Dr. George Harley has recently resigned the office of Physician, in consequence of the increasing demands of private practice. The loss of his services will be greatly felt, especially in the Children's Wards, in the establishment and management of which he took a warm interest.

Dr. Tilbury Fox was appointed Physician to the Skin Department in the place of the late Dr. Hillier, whose untimely death was mentioned in the last Report.

Mr. Streatfield, on being appointed Surgeon to the Ophthalmic Hospital in Moorfields, resigned his appointment in University College Hospital.

The enlargement of the Hospital rendering it necessary to increase the strength of the Medical Staff, Mr. F. T. Roberts, M.B., B.Sc., has recently been elected Assistant Physician; and for the same reason, an additional House Surgeon has been appointed; while the Physicians in charge of Out-Patients will be greatly aided in the performance of their onerous duties by the Assistants whom they have been authorised to select from among the older Students having legal qualifications to practice.

Mr. George V. Poore, M.B., B.Sc., a distinguished Student of the College and Hospital was appointed in July 1869 to the important post of Resident Medical Officer, vacant by the resignation of Mr. Squarey.
